Mademoiselle Coco Chanel
Kirkland and Lagerfeld

Mademoiselle presents photographs of Coco Chanel taken by Douglas Kirkland in 1962 on assignment in Paris for the American magazine Look. These photos reveal both the working fashion icon and the sympathetic character beneath, showing Mademoiselle leaving her suite at the Ritz Hotel, in her apartment and studio at 31 rue Cambon, and watching a défilé from the famous mirrored staircase. Karl Lagerfeld has conceived and designed Mademoiselle, as well as written an introduction and captions to Kirkland's photos. "Through Kirkland's images we can imagine what the famous Coco had been all about before she became the formidable Chanel." - Karl Lagerfeld
